Bydgoszcz seen from the Water Tower

In 1900, on the hill known today as Gen. Henryk Dąbrowski Hill, which is the highest site in relation to the water intake in Las Gdański, the water tower (designed by Franz Marschal) was opened. It played an important role in the modern waterworks system of Bydgoszcz. The architect of this industrial facility (45 metres high) added a public lookout terrace to it, which was a great attraction. It offered a view of the whole city. Unfortunately, the terrace was closed after 1945. It was only reopened in 2012, after completion of renovation and adaptation works related to turning the Water Tower into one of the buildings of the Museum of Waterworks (the second part of the Museum is located in the Historical Pump Room at 242 Gdańska Street). Inside, we find an exhibition recounting the history of the local waterworks and sewers. There is a collection of documents, photographs, old bathroom and toilet accessories, and even pieces of wooden pipes coming from the first local waterworks dating from the 16th century, excavated during archaeological works. After touring the industrial exhibition, we can take a narrow, winding staircase to access the lookout terrace, which offers a breath-taking, panoramic view of Bydgoszcz. There are several telescopes mounted on the railing, offering a more detailed view of the city.

“Man Crossing the River” sculpture

The “Man Crossing the River” sculpture came to Bydgoszcz on May 1, 2004 in order to commemorate Poland’s accession to the European Union. This unique statue was made by Jerzy Kędziora. The mystery of the “Man Crossing the River” consists in shifting its centre of gravity below the rope level, maintaining its balance. The rope also features a swallow (which is Schwalbe in German), in order to commemorate Andrzej Szwalbe, the outstanding citizen of Bydgoszcz, founder of the Pomeranian Philharmonic.

Granaries on the Brda River

Bydgoszcz granaries on the River Brda are almost like the coat of arms of the city. Only several historical granaries have remained in Bydgoszcz, with only four dating from before the 19th century, standing on the riverside in the city centre. All of them are half-timbered buildings serving today as museums. Three granaries at 9-11 Grodzka Street (the image of which is commemorated on the contemporary logo of Bydgoszcz), were built in 1793–1800 by merchant Samuel Gottlieb Engelmann. Initially, the complex on Grodzka Street consisted of five granaries built as a row of houses, which were used as warehouses. In 1960, two of them were completely burned down. In 1962, the preserved granaries were transformed into exhibition buildings of the Leon Wyczółkowski District Museum of Bydgoszcz.

These days, permanent exhibitions of the Museum include “From the Old Market Square to Wolności Square.” “A Walk On the Streets of Interwar Bydgoszcz” and “Bydgoszcz – Pieces of the City” and temporary exhibition.

Bydgoszcz Canal

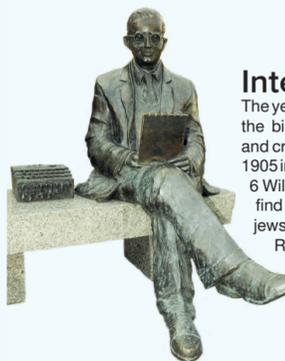

The Bydgoszcz Canal, built in 1773–1774, is part of the international waterway E70. It connects the Vistula with the Odra River through its tributaries, the Noteć and Warta Rivers. The Building of the Canal contributed to the fast growth of the city, which thanks to its modern hydrotechnical facilities, distinct riverside industrial, residential and recreational buildings, gained its elegance, riverbank identity and the status of one of the main inland transport centres. In 1908–1915, the New Canal was built with such unique locks as Czyżkówko and Okole, provided with compensation reservoir, allowing to save most of the water. The turn of the 21st century was very generous for the canal. Residents and administrators of the city turn toward water, which can be confirmed by repair works on the canal in the 1990s, listing the Bydgoszcz Canal in the Register of Historic Sites of Kujawsko-Pomorskie Voivodeship in 2005, and projects implemented recently within the REURIS program.

Interesting titbit

The year 2015 marked the 110th anniversary of the birth of this outstanding mathematician and cryptologist, who was born on August 16, 1905 in Bydgoszcz; he lived with his parents on 6 Wileńska Street, where these days we can find a commemorative plaque. Marian Rejewski, along with Henryk Zygalski and Jerzy Różycki, solved the Enigma machine, the main cipher device used by Germany, speeding up the end of World War II. He is recognized as one of the most distinguished citizens of our city.

“Deluge” Fountain

One of the must-have photographs of one’s stay in Bydgoszcz is a photo at the “Deluge” Fountain, which stands in Kazimierz Wielki Park, in the proximity of Wolności Square. This impressive fountain, made by Ferdinand Lepcke, was erected on this site in 1904, in the then garden of the Bydgoszcz District Government. The artist placed a composition referring to the Biblical Deluge in a huge pool made from red sandstone. In the middle is a group of people rising to a height of 6 metres, featuring a muscular man holding a languid woman, and a second woman lying dead at his feet with a child clinging to her. There are additional statues on the sides; one of them depicts a man fighting for his life with a snake wrapped around him, while another features a mother bear with a dead cub. The unique effect of the monument is created by the surface surrounding the fountain, made as a multicolour, ornamental mosaic with a motif of waves.

This greatest work made by the artist had impressed spectators until 1943 as one of the biggest attractions of Bydgoszcz, and a popular site for taking photographs. Unfortunately, valuable sculptures were confiscated for war purposes. These days, thanks to the Social Committee for Rebuilding the Fountain established in 2004, the bronze, multi-figural statue has been faithfully restored. The rebuilt scene of the Biblical Deluge, placed in a renovated basin and surrounded by the restored mosaic, has once again become one of the most impressive and beautiful fountains in Poland.

Where: Kazimierz Wielki Park

Interesting titbit: The restored fountain looks most beautiful after dusk, when colourful illumination highlights the sculpted composition.

The “Archer Lady” statue

It was once standing on Teatralny Square, in the vicinity of the now non-existent Municipal Theatre, angering some prudish residents of Bydgoszcz. These days, the “Archer Lady” statue, known as one of the symbols of Bydgoszcz, stands across from the Polish Theatre in Jan Kochanowski Park.

Mill Island

Mill Island is the green heart of Bydgoszcz, an enclave in the city centre. People coming here can relax in the park, among alleys lined with old trees, vast lawns, and alleys with benches, listening to the rapidly falling water at the weir and culvert. Water surrounds everything. From the direction of the Old Town, we can find the Brda Miłynówka river, running fast and nervously, along with the wall of Bydgoszcz Venice. Across from it is the vast main riverbed of the Upper Brda, featuring such landmarks as the stately Cathedral and Opera Nova. Thanks to revitalization, this place has become the favourite hangout of the local residents. Here, we can also find the historical buildings of the Museum with modern upgrades, water tram stop, yacht marina, playground, amphitheatre, numerous hiking and biking paths, and even a beach next to the spacious lawn on which Bydgoszcz residents enjoy lounging on their blankets.

Old granaries and mills house exhibitions of the Leon Wyczółkowski District Museum. The old granary at 1 Mennica Street, dating from the mid-19th century, once used for storing bagged grains, has been turned into a stylish restaurant.

The Marina on the Mill Island was completed in 2012. The building was designed by the Rokiccy Architectural Office, winning recognition among architectural experts.

Mock-up of the Bydgoszcz Castle

The mock-up is built from mini bricks. The site along with description can be seen on 19-21 Grodzka Street in the proximity of the mBank (formerly BRE Bank) office building. The Bydgoszcz Castle was built during the reign of King Casimir the Great and had stood here until the 17th century, when it was blown up by the Swedes.

The miniature model of Bydgoszcz shows how the city looked in the 17th century. The model is located at the amphitheatre on Mostowa Street, in front of the granaries.

Every day, at 1:13 pm and 9:13 pm, a window opens in the tenement house in the Old Market Square no. 15, where Master Twardowski appears in a smoke haze. Go on a trip on a historical tram or bus

For those who feel better on land than on water, Bydgoszcz offers trips by a historical, hundred year old tram, Herbrand or Red eNka made in the 1960s. Those who like the atmosphere of Communist Poland will enjoy a ride by "Ogórek" (cucumber), which is our immortal bus Jelcz 043. Jelcz buses, called colloquially "Ogórki" link the city center with Exploseum and Myślęcinkiem (the biggest municipal park in Poland). The main stop of "Ogórek" is on Kościeleckich Square and is marked with a retro information post.

The old bimbas (trams) "Herbrand" and Red eNka travel on a special tourist line from Bałtycka to Las Gdański (Myślęcinek). Great fun for children is a trip by Herbrand, made in Cologne in 1898, with open balconies and the driver dressed in a stylish uniform.

Learn about the explosive history of the city

The secret of the mysterious ruins lay hidden in the Bydgoszcz Forest for fifty years. Only the older residents, remembering the times of World War II, knew that several kilometres from the operating chemical plant and newly developed industrial park, there is a place known for inhuman forced labour involving over 40,000 workers of the former DAG Fabrik Bromberg. In 2008, the decision was made to transform part of the area into a museum. Out of several hundred buildings that in 1939–1945 were part of a huge concern providing the Third Reich with nitroglycerin, trinitrotoluene and smokeless powder, a dozen or so were separated and connected by tunnels. They are created by two twin lines NGL – Betrieb, i.e. nitroglycerin production. One of them was designated as a museum – Exploseum, while the second one, as a permanent ruin, shows the mark left by time on the buildings and preserves their original look. A visit to the Exploseum provides extensive knowledge on military technology. A tour through its myriad, murky and concrete corridors will certainly be remembered for a long time. www.exploseum.pl

When: Exploseum is open from Tuesday to Sunday, between 8:00 am and 4:00 pm (in winter season) and on Tuesday, Wednesday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday 9:00 am – 5:00 pm, Thursday 9:00 am – 7:00 pm, Monday – closed (in summer season).

Where: The Museum is situated on the outskirts of the city, in Bydgoszcz Industrial Park. It can be easily accessed by car. Passing through the gate, you will see signs which will guide you to the destination. Tourist can also use public transport. Bus no.68 runs to the Exploseum.

Relax in Myślęcinek

It is the biggest municipal park in Poland, occupying 830 hectares. It is situated only 5 km from the city centre. The park offers a host of attractions for visitors of all ages. During the summer season, we recommend a visit to the funfair, the Lost World (Dinosaur Park) and Macroworld (park with huge insects). Great fun for youngsters is a rope park with a zip-line and skatepark. Adults will surely enjoy the beautiful Botanical Garden located in a picturesque valley. Another attraction is a waterfall located in the Alpiniarium. The Myślęcinek Zoo and Terrarium are also worth visiting. Water sports enthusiasts can take advantage of a lift in the Wakepark. Myślęcinek is also a perfect place to organize a picnic on the beach on one of the local ponds, which offer barbecue sites. One of the winter attractions is a ski slope with a lift.

When: The Forest Park of Culture and Recreation is open all year round; however, some of its attractions are available depending on the season.

Where: Myślęcinek is located a few kilometres away from the city centre. The park can be accessed by car (parking near the tram terminus or further, the ZOO). Visitors without cars can use public transport, taking bus no. 52P, which runs every hour from the city centre (Jagiellonów Roundabout) to the stop at the ZOO or take tram toward Las Gdański (the last stop of the tram)
